

Table of contents

1. Collective bargaining and working time in Europe: an overview Maarten Keune
1.1. Introduction	9
1.2. Changing context for collective bargaining in Europe	10
1.3. Working time: issues and positions	12
1.4. Changing working time regulations: state-led or bargaining-based?	16
1.5. Changing working time outcomes	19
1.6. Implications for collective agreements and collective bargaining processes	25
2. Collective bargaining and working time in Austria Susanne Pernicka and Georg Adam
2.1. Statutory regulations on working time	31
2.2. Collective bargaining on working time	33
2.3. Pensions	37
2.4. Flexible employment	39
3. Bargaining on working time in Belgium Sandra Rosvelds
3.1. Introduction	45
3.2. Working time in a national and international context	45
3.3. Collective bargaining on working time	46
3.4. Outcome of the negotiations	46
4. Collective bargaining and working time: Bulgaria Lyuben Tomev, Nadezhda Daskalova and Tatiana Michailova
4.1. Introduction: socio-economic background	49
4.2. Working time developments	50
4.3. Collective bargaining on working time	51
4.4. Results of collective bargaining	53
4.5. Collective bargaining and the labour market	55
4.6. Conclusion	59
5. Collective bargaining and working time: Czech Republic Martin Fassman and Helena Čornejová
5.1. Introduction	63
5.2. Working time in the Czech Republic	63
5.3. Changes in lifelong working time	64
Collective bargaining on working time: recent European experiences	5

5.4. Working time and collective bargaining	64
5.5. Why working time reduction is not on the agenda	65
6. Collective bargaining and working time in Denmark
Carsten Jørgensen
6.1. Working time in its national and international context	73
6.2. Collective bargaining on working time	75
6.3. Bargaining outcomes	77
6.4. Flexible employment and early retirement	79
7. Collective bargaining on working time in Finland
Pekka Sauramo
7.1. Introduction	85
7.2. Working time and collective bargaining	86
7.3. Collective bargaining and the labour market	89
7.4. Future prospects	90
8. Reduction of working time in France: a lone knight
Christian Dufour
8.1. Legislation on working time reduction through bargaining and experiment	93
8.2. The results: shorter working hours, job creation, enhanced bargaining	97
8.3. The measures adopted by the right-wing government against shorter working hours and their practical effects	100
8.4. Conclusion: a new working time system that is validated by society	105
9. Germany: Working time and its negotiation
Reinhard Bispinck
9.1. Working time: a controversial topic	111
9.2. Working time regulation	112
9.3. Real working time arrangements in Germany	120
9.4. Current working time disputes	122
9.5. Outlook	128
10. Collective bargaining and working time in Greece
Katerina Christofi
10.1. Working time in its national and international context	131
10.2. Collective bargaining on working time	133
10.3. Outcomes of bargaining	135
10.4. Collective bargaining and the labour market	139

11. Collective bargaining and working time: Hungary*Szilvia Borbély*

11.1. Working time in its national and international context	143
11.2. Collective bargaining on working time	144
11.3. Collective bargaining and the labour market	149

12. Collective bargaining on working time in Italy, 1990-2005*G. D'Aloia, G. Olini and R. Pelusi*

12.1. Working time policy in Italy: background	159
12.2. National contractual working time	163
12.3. National collective bargaining on working time and flexibility since July 1993	164
12.4. Decentralised bargaining	169

13. Collective bargaining and working time: Lithuania*Tatjana Babrauskiene*

13.1. Labour legislation	173
13.2. Important issues related to working time in Lithuania	176
13.3. Collective bargaining on working time	177
13.4. Bargaining outcomes	181

14. Collective bargaining and working time in Norway*Håvard Lismoen*

14.1. Working time in its economic and political context	183
14.2. Collective bargaining on working time	188

15. Working time regulation in Poland - recent trends*Jakub Stelina*

15.1. Working time in its national and international context	197
15.2. Collective bargaining on working time	199
15.3. Outcomes of bargaining	201
15.4. Developments on the labour market	203

16. Collective bargaining on working time in Portugal*Reinhard Naumann*

16.1. Working time in its national and international context	207
16.2. Collective bargaining on working time	209
16.3. Collective bargaining and the labour market	212

17. Collective bargaining on working time: Romania
Lucian Vasilescu
17.1. Working time in its national and international contexts	217
17.2. Collective bargaining on working time	219
17.3. Outcomes of bargaining	223
17.4. Collective bargaining and the labour market	224
18. Collective bargaining on working time: Slovakia
Ludovít Czírta
18.1. Political and economic background	227
18.2. Working time in its national and international contexts	229
18.3. Collective bargaining on working time	231
18.4. Bargaining outcomes	233
18.5. Collective bargaining and the labour market	233
19. Collective bargaining and working time in Slovenia
Andrej Kobont
19.1. Working time in its national and international contexts	239
19.2. Collective bargaining on working time	245
19.3. Trade union reactions to working time extension	246
19.4. Collective bargaining and the labour market	248
19.5. Conclusion	249
20. Collective bargaining and working time in Spain
Amaia Otaegui Fernández and Elena Gutiérrez Quintana
20.1. Introduction	253
20.2. Collective bargaining and working time in 2004	254
20.3. Trade union objectives and strategies	258
21. Collective negotiations and working time in Switzerland
Ewald Ackermann
21.1. Introduction	265
21.2. Working time: positions, conflicts and outcomes	265
21.3. Pensions and early retirement	270
22. Collective bargaining on working time: the UK
Richard Exell
22.1. Working time in its national and international context	273
22.2. Collective bargaining on working time	280
List of contributors	289