Promoting an inclusive growth strategy:
Facts and dilemma's between theory and practice

The World(s) of Work in Transition
ETUI conference
Brussels, 27 June 2018

The reality check

- Inclusive growth is not well known
- Growth equals productivity
- Precariousness is a concept for workers
“Any job is a good job”

Time for a new model

- “A lost decade”
- “Time for a pay rise”
- Build-up of frustration after austerity
- Measure did not deliver

Yes, we can't ?

- Pillar of social rights calls for voluntarism
- Redistribution as an excuse?

Question 1

- Does inclusive growth = social market economy?
  - Direct seizure of capital gains
  - Missing link in inclusive growth debate: collective bargaining

Question 2

- Centralisation and coordination no substitutes?
  - Centralisation = wage moderation / ceilings
  - Coordination = upward dynamic / natural practice

Question 3

- Wages or more?
  - Centralisation: spurring non-wage debates
  - Coordination: limited to wages

Question 4

- Coordination is implicit pattern bargaining, does it forego more sophisticated rule-based systems?

Question 5

- Is there a contradictio in terminis:
  - International (everybody wants it)
  - Coordination (nobody supports it)
- Which system to internationalize:
pre/redistribution
- Weak link between theory and practice

Question 6

- Can the public sector be a wage leader?
  - No, because of export
  - Yes, for internal stabilization
