

List of contributors

Franz Astleithner is a researcher at the Forschungs- und Beratungsstelle Arbeitswelt (FORBA) in Vienna. His research interests comprise work and working time, industrial relations, inequality and ethnic businesses.

Erik Bengtsson is a researcher in Economic History at Lund University and University of Gothenburg. He does research on economic inequality, macroeconomic history, economic institutions, and industrial relations.

Magdalena Bernaciak is Assistant Professor at the Department of Politics and European Studies at the American University in Bulgaria, and an associate researcher at the European Trade Union Institute. Her research interests include the political economy of EU eastern enlargement, intra-EU labor migration and employment relations in Central-Eastern Europe.

José Pablo Calleja Jiménez is a Lecturer in Social Work and member of the PROMEBI research group in the University of Oviedo. He has just finished his PHD on trade union revitalization strategies in Spain.

Geneviève Coderre-LaPalme is a doctoral student at the University of Greenwich in London, UK. She is part of the 'Work and Employment Research Unit' (WERU) at the Greenwich University Business School. Her doctoral research focuses on trade union responses in the context of public healthcare marketization in France and in England.

Paul de Beer is Henri Polak professor of Industrial Relations at the University of Amsterdam, affiliated with AIAS-HSI and director of De Burcht, scientific bureau for the Dutch trade union movement.

Heiner Dribbusch is Senior Researcher at the Institute of Economic and Social Research (WSI). Fields of research: industrial relations, unionism, industrial conflict.

Jörg Flecker is Professor at the Institute of Sociology at the University of Vienna and Chairman of the Working Life Research Centre (Forba), Austria.

Ian Greer is Senior Research Associate at Cornell University's School of Industrial and Labor Relations. He was previously Professor of Comparative Employment Relations and Director of the Work and Employment Research Unit at the University of Greenwich.

Maarten Keune is Professor in Social Security and Labour Relations and co-director of the Amsterdam Institute for Advanced Labour Studies (AIAS) at the University of Amsterdam.

Holm-Detlev Köhler is Professor of Sociology at the Department of Sociology, University of Oviedo (Spain) and part of the PROMEBI research group dedicated to promote employment and welfare in Europe.

Steffen Lehndorff is Research Fellow at the Institute Work and Qualification (IAQ) at the University of Duisburg/Essen, Germany. He is interested in comparative research into employment models, working-time and industrial relations systems in Europe.

Salvo Leonardi, PhD at the University of Rome, is Senior Researcher at the Fondazione Di Vittorio for the industrial relations area and member of numerous international networks of research.

Torsten Müller is Senior Researcher at the European Trade Union Institute (ETUI) in Brussels/Belgium, where he is responsible for the area of wages and collective bargaining in Europe.

László Neumann was Senior Research Fellow at the former Labour Research Institute (and its successors) and at the Hungarian Academy of Sciences / Institute of Political Science, Budapest.

Jean-Marie Pernet is Research Fellow at the IRES – Economic and Social Research Institute – in Paris and at the Centre for Social History of the XXth Century – CNRS & University of Paris 1.

Hans-Wolfgang Platzer is Professor in the Department of Social Science and Cultural Studies at the University of Applied Sciences, Fulda. He holds the Jean Monnet Chair of European Integration and personam and is Director of the European and Global Industrial Relations Research Group at Fulda University.

Magnus Ryner is Professor of International Political Economy at King's College London. Recent publications include The European Union and Global Capitalism (Palgrave Macmillan, 2017).

Thorsten Schulten is Senior Researcher at the Institute of Economic and Social Research (WSI) within the Hans Böckler Foundation in Düsseldorf. He also teaches Political Science as an honorary professor at the University of Tübingen.

András Tóth is Senior Research Fellow at the Hungarian Academy of Sciences, Centre for Social Sciences (MTA TK PTI) in Budapest.

Markos Vogiatzoglou holds a PhD from the European University Institute (Florence, Italy) and currently works as the Chief Executive Officer for New Media and Archive at the Hellenic Broadcasting Company (ERT) in Athens.