COVID-19: State aid actions
March 19, 2020
The European Commission adopted a Temporary Framework to enable Member States to use the full flexibility foreseen under state aid rules to support the economy in the context of the COVID-19 outbreak. The aim is to ensure that businesses have the liquidity to keep operating, or to put a temporary freeze on their activities, if need be, and that support for businesses in one Member State does not undermine the European single market.

COVID-19: Double salary for doctors and nurses
March 24, 2020

The government announced that they will provide €2 billion, equivalent to 4% of GDP, to help the economy and its citizens overcome the impact of the coronavirus outbreak. Many companies have had to stop production because of a lack of components or as part of measures to try to slow the coronavirus outbreak. Until the end of May, the state will pay a basic income to the self-employed whose business has been affected. Hourly wages of professionals, such as doctors and nurses working to fight the epidemic, will be increased by up to 200%, while the salaries of government officials will be reduced by 30% while the outbreak continues.

COVID-19: Sick pay from the first day
March 11, 2020

The government is temporarily changing the first unpaid day of sick leave in response to the coronavirus. The decision means that workers will get sickness benefits from the moment they have to be absent from work due to illness, and the state rather than employers will foot the bill for the cost of the first day. Swedish law normally guarantees sick pay from the second day of illness, but concerns had been raised that employees would turn up at work despite feeling ill in order not to lose out on the first day's salary.

COVID-19: Emergency package of €30 billion
March 20, 2020

The government announced an additional CHF 32 billion (€30 billion) for the labour market, including tourism, culture and sports. This package is in addition to the CHF 10 (€ 9.5 billion) billion announced earlier to cushion the expected downturn caused by the virus. These measures are intended to safeguard jobs, guarantee wages and support the self-employed. The right to compensation in the event of a reduction in work will be extended to temporary workers and for people in an apprenticeship. Parents who have had to interrupt their work to care for their children after schools closed can claim compensation.
