EU Labour Migration in Troubled Times

Skills Mismatch, Return and Policy Responses

Edited by Béla Galgóczi, Janine Leschke and Andrew Watt,
all at European Trade Union Institute, Belgium

'This is much awaited and indeed valuable collection of analytical papers that examine the effects of on-going economic crisis on intra-EU worker mobility that ensued on the recent eastward enlargements. The book will not only meet the expectations of those interested in the European migration and outcomes of the extended freedom of labour movements but also in the management of those movements in the present turbulent period.'

– Marek Okolski, University of Warsaw and Warsaw School of Social Sciences and Humanities, Poland

'This unique volume addresses some of the most fascinating and momentous developments characterizing labour mobility in an enlarged and crisis-stricken EU. An innovative analysis of skill mismatches, return migration and selectivity of migration, and an analysis of how migration interacts with wage setting and trade union policies make this book a must read for anyone wishing to grasp post-enlargement mobility in the EU.'

– Martin Kahanec, Central European University, Hungary

Building on the earlier Ashgate publication EU Labour Migration Since Enlargement, the editors have assembled a team of experts from across Europe to shed light on the critical issues raised by internal labour mobility within the EU in the context of economic crisis and labour market pressures. The book's chapters tease out the links between economic developments, regulatory frameworks and migration patterns in different European countries. A central focus is on issues of skills and skills mismatch and how they relate to migration forms, duration and individual decisions to stay or return.

Contents: EU labour migration and labour markets in troubled times, Béla Galgóczi, Janine Leschke and Andrew Watt; PART I DIFFERENT TYPES OF CROSS-BORDER LABOUR MOBILITY AND SKILLS-JOB MISMATCH: Migration from the accession countries to the United Kingdom and Italy: socio-economic characteristics, skills composition and labour market outcomes, Giulia Bettin; A skill mismatch for migrant workers? Evidence from WageIndicator survey data, Kea Tijdens and Maarten van Klaveren; Educational attainment and education-job mismatch of cross-border commuters in the EU, Peter Huber.

PART II THE EXTENT AND QUALITATIVE CHARACTERISTICS OF MIGRATION AND RETURN AGAINST THE BACKGROUND OF CRISIS AND RECOVERY: Return migration to Poland in the post-accession period, Marta Anacka and Agnieszka Fihel; Selectivity of migrants from Baltic countries before and after enlargement and responses to the crisis, Mihails Hazans. PART III POLICY IMPLICATIONS OF, AND RESPONSES TO, CROSS-BORDER LABOUR MOBILITY IN THE EU AFTER 2004: Supporting, recruiting and organising migrant workers in Ireland and the United Kingdom: a review of trade union practices, Jason Heyes and Mary Hyland; Migrant workers and wage-setting institutions: experiences from Germany, Norway, Switzerland and the United Kingdom, Line Eldring and Thorsten Schulten; Importing skills: migration policy, generic skills and earnings among immigrants in Australasia, Europe and North America, Tomas Korpi; Index.
