List of contributors

Cinzia Alcidi is Director of Research at the Centre for European Policy Studies (CEPS) in Brussels. She has long professional experience in providing evidence-based policy analysis to national governments and EU institutions. Prior to joining CEPS, she worked at the International Labour Office and taught International Economics at University of Perugia (Italy). Her expertise includes economic policy, EU governance and EU integration. Cinzia holds a PhD in International Economics from the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies, Geneva, Switzerland. Contact address: Cinzia.alcidi@ceps.eu

Angelina Atanasova has been a researcher at the European Social Observatory since September 2021. Her work covers the areas of gender equality and discrimination, disability rights, social inclusion as well as more specifically the role of the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU) in the social policy domain. She is currently finalising her PhD at the Public Law Department of KU-Leuven on the topic of EU law and the role of the CJEU in adjudicating social policy disputes at supranational level. Contact address: atanasova@ose.be

Denis Bouget is an emeritus professor at the University of Nantes (FR), where he was the Director of the Maison des Sciences de l’Homme (MSH). He is an associate researcher at both the OSE and the ETUI. He co-edited the Work and Welfare in Europe Series for Palgrave Macmillan (2011–2019) and was general coordinator of a network of excellence on Reconciling Work and Welfare in Europe (RECWOWE) between 2006 and 2011. Contact address: denis.bouget@univ-nantes.fr

Hans Bruyninckx became the Executive Director of the European Environment Agency (EEA) on 1 June 2013. Equipped with a PhD in international environmental politics from Colorado State University (1996), from 2010 to 2013 he headed the HIVA Research Institute in Leuven, an institute specialising in policy research. During his career, he has conducted research in more than a dozen countries, in areas including environmental politics, climate change and sustainable development. Contact address: hans.bruyninckx@eea.europa.eu

Francesco Corti is an adjunct professor at the University of Milan, an associate researcher at CEPS and external advisor to the European Court of Auditors and Eurofound. An expert in European social and employment policies, EU budget, EMU governance and social investment, Francesco provides research and advisory services to various EU institutions. Since 2020, Francesco has been a key contributor of the CEPS Recovery and Resilience Monitor project. He served as policy advisor to a Member of Michael Dauderstädt is a freelance researcher. Until 2013, he worked for the Friedrich Ebert Foundation in various positions, including as director of the Division for Economic and Social Policy (2006–2013) and as head of its International Policy Analysis Unit (2000–2006). Before that, he worked as director of the Instituto de Estudos para o Desenvolvimento in Lisbon (1985–1989). Focusing on international political economy, European integration and Germany’s economic policy, his research has resulted in more than 300 publications, to be found on www.dauderstaedt.de. Contact address: michael@dauderstaedt.de

Thibaud Deruelle is a public policy scholar with specific research interests in health policy in the EU, the role of experts in decision-making and bureaucratic reputation. His PhD thesis, completed in 2021 at the University of Exeter investigates the governance of communicable diseases in the EU. He is currently affiliated to the University of Lausanne, where he works as a senior researcher on personalised health in a SINERGIA project financed by the Swiss National Foundation for Science. He is also adjunct lecturer in EU Politics at the Université Libre de Bruxelles (ULB). Contact address: thibaud.deruelle@unil.ch

Boris Fronteddu has been a researcher at the Centre Permanent pour la Citoyenneté et la Participation (CPCP) since May 2021 where he mainly works on sustainability. Before that, he worked as researcher at the OSE for two years, mainly focusing on sustainable development, social protection and socio-economic governance. Contact address: fronteddu@cpcp.be

Gülçin Karadeniz joined the European Environment Agency’s (EEA) Communications team in 2008 and is currently leading a team responsible for external communication activities, including media relations and social media. She holds a MSc in political economy (1999) from the London School of Economics. Before joining the EEA, she worked in EU- and policy-related communications, also for the European Commission. Contact address: gulcin.karadeniz@eea.europa.eu

Jock Martin heads the Integrated Assessments for Sustainability Programme at the EEA. He is responsible for the strategic development of integrated environmental assessment methods and products in support to European policies. He has a BA honours degree in pure mathematics, economics and statistics from Queens University Belfast (1985). Before joining the EEA in 1997, he worked for the Department for the Environment in the UK on, inter alia, indicators for sustainable development. Contact address: Jock.Martin@eea.europa.eu

Aída Ponce Del Castillo holds a PhD in Law and a master’s degree in bioethics. She is a senior researcher at the Foresight Unit of the Brussels-based European Trade Union Institute (ETUI). Her research focuses on the legal, social and regulatory issues surrounding emerging technologies, in particular AI and data-driven technologies. She also conducts foresight projects. At the OECD she is a member of the Working Party on Bio-, Nano- and Converging Technologies (BNCT) and of the OECD expert group on Policies for AI. Contact address: aponce@etui.org

Slavina Spasova is a senior researcher at the OSE, where she has worked since 2016. She holds a PhD in political science (ULB). Her research agenda focuses on various social policy issues such as social dialogue and social protection, pension reforms, work–life balance, health care, long-term care, sickness benefits and unemployment benefits. She is the OSE’s coordinator in the European Social Policy Network (ESPN). She has been a co-editor of Social policy in the European Union since 2019. Slavina is also a research associate at the ULB’s Centre d'étude de la vie politique (CEVIPO). Contact address: spasova@ose.be

Bart Vanhercke, PhD in social science (University of Amsterdam), has been OSE director since 2010 and editor of Social policy in the European Union for the past decade. His current research focuses on the place of social players in the Recovery and Resilience Facility and the ‘socialisation’ of the EU’s economic governance, topics on which he also works as an associate academic staff member at the Research Institute for Work and Society (HIVA), KU Leuven. He was appointed as a visiting professor at the College of Europe (Bruges) during 2020–2021. He is the author of around 130 articles, chapters and books. Contact address: vanhercke@ose.be

Amy Verdun is professor of political science at the University of Victoria – BC Canada, where she has been since 1997, working as a full professor since 2005. She is also visiting professor at Leiden University. Her research deals with European integration, governance and policymaking, and political economy, as well as comparisons between the EU and Canada and most recently the European Semester. To date she has published 22 books as well as more than 140 peer-reviewed articles and chapters. From 2010–2017 she was co-editor (with Michelle Cini) of the Journal of Common Market Studies. Contact address: averdun@uvic.ca